Gary Krafft, an Ephrata native, has been practicing law with his partners since 1975. He graduated from Ephrata High School in 1967, married his high school sweetheart, Rosalind Steffy, in 1969 and moved back to Ephrata after law school so that his son, Matt, and his daughter, Kathy, would grow up in the hometown he loved. Gary served on the Ephrata School Board from 1985 to 2001, and many will remember his unique speeches at high school commencement ceremonies. He has provided superior legal services to countless Ephrata residents and businesses over the years and is proud to call many of them friends. Although Gary truly enjoys practicing law, he and Roz fell in love with a community in North Carolina and knew it would be a great place to relax and slow down a bit. They made the move in 2017 but still return to Ephrata.

Moving south meant that Gary had to be sure the families and clients he worked with over the years would be well served by his colleagues. Holly Filius, Julie Miller, Aaron Zeamer, Lindsay Schoeneberger and others had already been providing personalized legal services to clients in Ephrata for years. Kathleen Krafft Miller, Gary's daughter, also joined the firm, and brought additional hometown familiarity to the practice.

All of the attorneys at Russell, Krafft & Gruber are committed to their clients and the communities they serve. When asked how the practice of law has changed over the years, Gary Krafft said, "As time goes by, the law is constantly evolving as a result of changes to both statutory and case law, procedural practices and technology. It is essential to be a 'life-long learner' to be an effective attorney."

We know it is just not enough to be a good attorney. We appreciate the importance of our clients' legal issues, but strive to provide personal attention to every client.
