Scott Eaby joined Russell, Krafft and Gruber in November 2019. Scott has resided in Ephrata, Lancaster County all of his life, proudly serving families and businesses in the Central Pennsylvania area since 1976. Scott's legal practice has included real estate transactions, business formation, personal injury, and many facets of family law.

Scott was joined in his move by his assistant, Nancy Hickey, also a longtime resident of the Ephrata area. Nancy is a paralegal with many years of experience working in estate administration. Attorney Lindsay Schoeneberger and Nancy work closely with many of Scott's estate clients to ensure they continue to receive the same personalized legal services they expect from a hometown attorney. They work together to guide and support executors, beneficiaries and family members as they navigate the probate and estate administration process.

All of the attorneys at the firm are committed to their clients and the communities they serve. We know it is just not enough to be a good attorney. According to Scott, "The law can sometimes be complex, but what is constant is the need for a lawyer to know and appreciate what is meaningful to the client."
